Complete Abstract of All Randall County Property

R. A. TERRILL. - MANAGER
Anti-Saloon League Organized.

On last Tuesday night, Dr. G. W. Eichelberger of Fort Worth, District Superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, addressed a large and attentive audience at the Methodist church. He spoke of the purposes and aims of the Anti-Saloon League in its fight to drive the saloons from this fair land of ours. He portrayed the evils of the saloon and the liquor business.

After the address, an Anti-Saloon League was organized for Randall county with the following officers: W. J. Flesher, County Chairman; C. E. Coss, County Secretary; John Rowan Sr., John Knight, and G. G. Foster, Executive Committee.

Mrs. M. Huffmeyer of Denton who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. F. Meyers, returned home Wednesday.

A Shaking Up

may all be very well as far as the trusts are concerned, but not when it comes to chills and fever and malaria. Quit the quinine and take a real cure—Ballard's Herbine. Contains no harmful drugs and is as certain as taxes. If it doesn't cure you get your money back. For sale by Thompson Drug Co., The Leading Druggist.

While it is often impossible to prevent an accident, it is never impossible to be prepared—it is not beyond any one's purse. Invest 25 cents in a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and you are prepared for sprains, bruises and like injuries. Sold by City Pharmacy.

Worn Out

That's the way you feel about the lungs when you have a hacking cough. It's foolishness to let it go on and trust to luck to get over it, when Ballard's Horehound Syrup will stop the cough and heal the lungs. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Thompson Drug Co., The Leading Druggist.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by City Pharmacy.

Arrested

a cough that has been hanging on for over a month by taking Ballard's Horehound Syrup. If you have a cough, don't wait—stop it at once with this wonderful remedy. Splendid for coughs cold on chest, influenza, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Thompson Drug Co., The Leading Druggist.

A SINGLE HAIR.

By PERCY G. HALL.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

The editor of the Excelsior Magazine sat at his desk opening envelopes containing contributions. Running over the sheets of one to discover if it came within the prescribed length, he found between two of them a hair. It was too long for a man's hair and too short for a woman's. But it must be one or the other, and since the manuscript was sent in by a woman he concluded that it had belonged to the latter. It was not black or brown or red; it was golden. And the name of the girl on whose head it had doubtless grown was Nathalie Rose Arrowsmith. But perhaps this was fictitious.

The Excelsior Magazine was published in the far west, where women, being comparatively scarce, are appreciated. Possibly it was this that led the editor to dream over the golden hair and Nathalie Rose Arrowsmith. He was a young man of ideal tastes. He was not the owner of the periodical, but an employee whose business it was to select such contributions as would fit in between certain other staple matter. He possessed literary discrimination, but was aware that this delicate faculty was not considered in fixing his salary. What was expected of him was to read the manuscripts that came in to see that there was nothing in them calculated to offend any of the magazine's patrons, selecting those that would fit the empty spaces.

That a good name for Miss Arrowsmith would be "the fair one with the golden locks" gradually insinuated itself into the young editor's mind. He estimated the length of her production and, finding it within limits, laid it aside for acceptance in case it contained nothing objectionable. Meanwhile his operative mentality was on his work, but his ideal faculties—those akin to soul—were on "the fair one with the golden locks." By the time he had read her manuscript he had conjured up a poetic, aesthetic condition that enabled him to see in it the highest degree of literary merit. The language was "plains" or gulch language, and the author had succeeded in giving it as correctly as if she had kept a cowboy's boarding house. There were Rattlesnake Bill and Mexican Pete, as "bad men as ever fanned a 45 or twisted a bowie." Then there was Cactus Kate not overparticular in her loves, but "a heart as big as Table Mountain."

The story was available, but when the editor contemplated offering the management's limit of compensation for such productions—$2.50—his whole ideal nature sickened. Yet what could he do? Any suggestion to pay an additional sum for a literary gem would only meet with a snarl from his chief and the remark that "we ain't in this yere business to educate authors, but for dust." He concluded to soften the blow for the fair one with the golden locks by writing her a letter of apology for offering her so pitiful a sum for her production.

If he had stopped at this there need have been no harm done. All editors kindly insert feather beds under struggling authors before knocking them down. It's a feature of the business. But the gold strand had stuck in his head, and he added some "soft stuff." He inclosed the proprietor's check for the price to be paid and sent the whole away with a fluttering heart.

A few days later the young editor heard a stentorian voice in the manager's private room debating some question with all the intensity of language of Rattlesnake Bill or Mexican Pete in the story. Then the manager called the editor into his office. There stood a strapping cowboy whose yellow hair hung down under his sombrero. There were pistols and cartridges in his belt and spurs big enough for buzz saws on his heels. He was flushed with anger; but, on seeing the editor, who was a delicate fellow of five feet two inches and a hundred pounds weight, he stood astonished for a moment then burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter.

"Be you the kid as writ that?" he asked, holding forth the editor's apologetic message.

The editor stood stupefied. "Waal, waal, I ain't on the blow about seein' big wonders, but this is the blardestest observation I ever made. So y' took me for a gal. And the hair ez got in between the sheets. A golden strand. And y' daubed in some soft soap on me. I sure never see nothin' like this before."

"Did you write the stuff?" asked the proprietor of Nathalie Rose Arrowsmith.

"Sartin. I read it to the boys, and they 'lowed it was fine." "What made you choose that name?" "Why, pard, I was called sudden on a roundup and lef' the stuff with a young feller ez jist come out to the Peters ranch from the east to send to your magazine. He put on the name. He said he'd give it a nom der plum."

"It is a plum," remarked the proprietor contemptuously. "Waal, little one, I come up yere to see what kind of a galoot took me for a gal. I thort as if there was ary fault intended, though I ain't much on gun suddenness, I'd jist bore a hole in the man as did it. But you ain't big enough target for my guns. Good-by, Mr. Proprietor; goodbye, little one." And he walked out to the music of his spurs.

Then the manager turned to his editor. "I reckon," he said, "this ain't no pasture for a moon calf like you? Y' better go east to some o' them college magazines. Here's your salary to date."

Pleasantview.

The weather has been fine for the past week until Wednesday which was windy and cold.

The pesky old Lagrippe has visited us around here and several are sick but none serious.

Last Sunday while Mrs. Schramm's children were playing ball, John accidentally hit his little sister Edna in the forehead inflicting a painful wound which required five stitches to close up. She is now alright and is going to school.

Monday morning after Mrs. Crowley had finished sweeping the house, she discovered it full of smoke. She found the fire in a little side room but it was extinguished before any damage was done.

A chicken thief visited Roe Wakefield Saturday. After arming himself Andy routed the thief which proved to be a coyote.

Rev. M. E. Hawkins delivered us a good sermon Sunday. A large crowd from Canyon came out to hear him. They were welcomed visitors.

BOOSTER.

C. J. Collier, a representative of the Adrian Townsite Co., was on the streets of Canyon Monday, posting up bills and giving away tickets for the free lots. Preparations are now being made for an excursion Feb. 22nd and it will be Gafa day for Adrian.
